Position Available (Title, Dates, and Job Description):	Wolf Rock Animal Health Center is an integrative small animal practice in Southern Rhode Island. We are currently doing a nationwide search for a new associate veterinarian. We are seeking a veterinarian who has completed certificate-level training in veterinary acupuncture, and also has a desire to learn and practice additional alternative treatment modalities. Strong skills in conventional medicine and diagnostics are required. Our Animal Health Center is located in a custom designed, free-standing building. All exam and treatment areas have windows and low-level lighting, for the comfort and well-being of the humans and animals that use them. We are equipped with digital radiography, dental radiography, stem cell therapy, PRP, therapeutic lasers, a fully equipped surgical suite, as well as access to a boarded surgical specialist and local referral hospitals. We provide whole life/holistic care, which includes: small animal wellness, dental and surgical care, chiropractic, acupuncture, herbal, nutritional, and homeopathic medicine. Our practice philosophy is to provide gentle loving care for our patients, integrating conventional and alternative therapies on an individual basis for lifelong health. Work with an excellent support staff and loyal clients in a practice where loving and caring are part of the protocol. There are no emergency shifts. Hours include a 4 day work week and half day Saturday, every other week. Benefits include: Full health-care and dental insurance, retirement savings options, paid vacations, and generous continuing education benefits to further your studies in additional modalities. Option exists for flexible scheduling and potential buy-in. The practice is located in Southern Rhode Island, a rural area, just minutes from south coast beaches, the University of Rhode Island and the varied cultural attractions of Providence. It may be the smallest state, but it has something to offer for everyone! Including: beautiful beaches, to historic and progressive cities, and in-between; great sailing, surfing, horseback riding, kayaking, scuba diving, golfing and a very active local farming community. Should you be interested in relocating to this beautiful state and joining our team at Wolf Rock Animal Health Center, please send your cover letter and resume to me at manager@wolfrockanimals.com. I am looking forward to the opportunity to speak with you. Sincerely, Jacqueline Siler Business Manager
